We live long and fulfilling lives.

"I drove my first Subaru 376,000 miles. This one has 295,000 miles, and it still runs great. Subaru makes the best all-wheel-drive cars in the world."

—Dr. Hardy Herger, PhD

The thing you'll notice about Subaru owners is how long they hang on to them. They even celebrate milestones like passing the 200,000 miles mark on the odometer. Or even 500,000. So it's no wonder that 95% of all Subaru vehicles built in the last ten years are still on the road today.⁸ It's also why Subaru vehicles keep their value so well. In fact, Subaru was named the number one automotive brand for residual value by ALG for 2010.⁵

We support our passions, too.

Subaru drivers just seem to do more. Because they can. We support your passions by giving you the capability to go anywhere they may lead. But we also share these through our association with partners that get people involved and make a difference.

Subaru Active and Passive Safety

We're committed to providing safety on every side, in every car we make. We start by engineering our vehicles with exceptional control and accident-avoidance technologies, then we build in protection technologies. All of these precautions have led to Subaru winning awards and distinctions year after year.

We try not to waste a thing.
Even waste.

In 2004, Subaru of Indiana Automotive, Inc. (SIA) became the first manufacturing facility in the U.S. to reach zero landfill status and be designated a wildlife habitat. And every Subaru plant continues to use green suppliers, reduce manufacturing wastes and CO₂ emissions.

The Subaru Legacy is the most fuel-efficient all-wheel drive car in America.⁶

Many Subaru models have achieved Partial Zero Emission Vehicle (PZEV)⁷ status.

We've spent decades building relationships with those who believe in building a cleaner and greener world as much as we do. That's why we support organizations such as Leave No Trace, which promotes responsible recreation.

The feeling is global.

The love for a Subaru goes way beyond a wave to a fellow owner on the road. All over the world and all over the internet, loyal enthusiasts—united by their passion for life and for Subaru—gather for rallies, events, and just talking about their favorite subject.

Subaru Boxer Engine

The SUBARU BOXER® engine is remarkably different because it generates more than power. The pistons are laid flat in a horizontally opposed design, providing powerful, yet smooth acceleration. And better yet, a lower center of gravity for increased handling stability.
